

A headline summarizes what the audience should understand from the figure (often based on intent)

Subheads provide technical info or additional context (optional)

